

'Swing Song' at Endicott

Keira Leslie of Beverly will perform in "Swing Song," a dance and chorus collaboration, Friday and Saturday, May 7 and 8, at 8 p.m. in the Center for the Arts, Endicott College, 376 Hale St.

Using swings suspended from the ceiling, dancers and singers will show how people move through and beyond adversity and rise above the problems of life.

The Endicott Singers and student and professional instrumentalists will provide the soundtrack that includes music from the African-American spiritual tradition, jazz, pop and contemporary country/gospel. The Endicott Repertory Dance Ensemble will perform in genres of modern, contemporary and jazz.

Tickets are $5 for general admission and free to Endicott ID holders and may be purchased at www.endicott.edu/centerforthearts or by leaving a message at 978-998-7700.
